

Books for Review

As stated on the website of the Creation Theology Society, “Each issue of the journal will publish a list of books for review. Book reviews for JCTS will include both traditional intradisciplinary review (reviews submitted by the author’s colleagues within his/her discipline; e.g., theologians reviewing theological books) and interdisciplinary reviews (e.g., scientists reviewing theological books on the topic of creation, or theologians reviewing scientific books on the topic of creation). Such diversity of book reviews reflects CTS’s goal of interdisciplinary communication and research.”

Accordingly, the Creation Theology Society encourages those possessing expertise in the subject matter of any of the following books to objectively and rigorously review them. Should you want to review a book listed here, contact the executive editor of JCTS (sboyd@creationtheologysociety.org) to secure a review copy.
